

Financially Dependent Student

Students who are financially dependent upon parents or legal guardians must provide documentation to prove their parents/legal guardians have established a bona fide domicile in the state of Washington. Students must also provide documentation to show they are dependents claimed by the parents/legal guardians on the most recent U.S. Federal Income Tax return.

Students whose parents or legal guardians are either divorced or legally separated may be classified as residents if the following conditions are met:

- The student is claimed on the most recent U.S. Federal Income Tax return by one of the parents/legal guardians.
- At least one parent or legal guardian has established a bona fide domicile in the State of Washington.

The student and parents/legal guardians will fill out the Residence Questionnaire.
